The Albany Allas is a journal constitutionally afflicted with malice and a propensity to falsehood so inveterate that we hardly know whether to deem it morally responsible. It naturally takes the side of the rioters against the authorities in discussing the late deplorable affray in our City, and, commenting on a recent article in this paper,

What the Atlas means by 'licensed establish on the protection of all in their legal rights at all tain the rights which have been legally seconded matter though the house attacked by a mob were Mayor's mansion or the City Hall. For the at

(Whether the shadow of bearing on the main question.) false that The Tribune ever " proclaimed its satisfaction at the wholesale and wanton slaughter of fellow-citizens"-basely false. Our satisfaction that, even at a cost so deplorable, it has been set tled that our citizens do not hold their own houses subject to the mercy of any hundred ruffians who may choose to tear them down and can find a thou. sand reckless idlers to stand behind and cheer them on. It is false that "the verdict of the only lega tribunal that investigated the matter affirmed un necessary bloodshed on the part of the magistracy." That part of the Jury's opinion amounted substan tially to this-That if the authorities had been gifted with prophetic vision, and so had known beforehanjust what a desperate, ferocious mob would besiege the theater on that occasion, they might, by send ing thither the entire Police and leaving the rest of the City for that night to the mercy of burglars, incendiaries and cut throats, have quelled the Rict with their civil force only.

There are twenty or thirty other falsehoods crowded into finif a column of The Atlan that we should be glad to reprobate, but cannot find room. Its assertion that "more than twenty innocen persons were killed" at the Riot, stands in de lightful proximity with its assertion that "The Tribune and its associates have uttered false accusations against the dead." We cannot imagine what The Atlas expected to gain, beyond the mere pleasure of lying, in calling The Tribune "the Law Reformer who is willing to dispense with court, law, jury and procf," nor by its assertion that The Tribune "protects Property at the unnecessary expense of innecent life." We have repeatedly explained that the consideraor the preservation of the lawful rights of the assailed; though we believe if the rioters had been permitted to destroy the Opera House, the loss of life would have been far greater than it was .- But we leave The Atlas to the undisturbeenjoyment of the residue of its wanton calumnics
